There is scarcely a more hopeless task to be imagined than the making over a commander like Schofield. Still it seems to be the President's hope, and the seems to be the President's hope, and the country will wish the experiment success. It is something gained by the effort of the radical friends of the President in Missouri, that the Federal Communication that Department must stop agero stealing, and attend to the business of putting down the relation.

We submit in another column an abstract, embodying all the facts and a very large portion of the arguments, set out in the numerial on the Canal calargement, addressed to the National Government, by point out; and the leaders is nevertheless irresistible.

Indeed, upon this branch of the subject we are inclined to believe, that what may be called the gustatory argument, the argument which tests the importance of any particular branch of commerce to the astional interests, by the presence or absence of saline flavor in the water which floats of saline flavor in the water which floats it, will very soon fade out of the public mind.

Such documents as this memorial are valuable for other purposes than merely as instruments in aid of some special enterprise. The influence which a permal of them is calculated to exert upon the heart and intellect of the people, is an indirect benefit of no minor, consequence. He who studies their wonderful exhibition of the studies their weatering eministron of the power and resources, prospects and inter-ests of the United States, will lose his sense of petty and local prejudices, partialities and sympatities in the proud consciousness of national citisenship. He will see and t die. We know not which cospirators will tue now. That reason and hitter melevolence of petry and local projections, partialities of the United States, will lose has some of the toron the valley of the toron the valley of the conditions of the conditions. It is conditionally the conditions of t hand. This delusion is, we hope, finally dispelled. We are at, we know not what period in the war; whether in its first phases or near its close, no man can tell. But we have gone far enough to see that we must go on; and to see also what mischief a few evfi-minded and unpatriotic represent 20,000 more, and this is all that a draft of 500,000 more has produced. The Euroliment Act directs that 50 per cent more names shall be drawn that men required, in order to cover those who may be exempted from physical disability and other causes. But astonishing to tell the examptions amount to nearly seven-eighths of the names drawn! Not more than thirteen men of every hundred drafted have been held to serve, in person or by substitute. And this draft has been and from the young men, between the ages of twenty and thirty-five. Twice as many old soldiers were discharged during the Summer by reason of expiration of terms of service, as were precured by the draft. The Potomac army is consequently designerously reduced. Lee now feels himself superior to what reunlass after the detachment of two army corps to reinforce

Its Late Trip Into Louisiana

Can'r or ran livra its. izv. Naan Naventz, Repumber, Stein, issa.

The health of the irrops at this place is good. We are having fine weather, being just cool anough ice camp comfort, as you might say. Since I last wrote you, we have hed another tramp, this time into Louisians. No doubt you have heard of it are this, but perhaps it would be interesting to hear something more about it from me, as I was along. The expedition c resisted of two brigades of our division, and one regiment of mounted infantry, of Gen. Bronson's brigade—in all aims regiments and two batteries of artillery. On Twesday, Reptember 1st, we left our camp and marched to the landing, which is about three miles distant. The mounted infantry and our third brigade crossed the river first and proceded on the march. Our brigade (the second) camped soon after we crossed and did not start out until the next morning.

From Our Own Correspondent.]

Cumseaspons., Oct. 4, 1862.

In a postsorpic of a preceding letter, Insformed you that it was reported that a large body of the enemy was moving towards our right, and suggested that the long talked of assent might soon be made.

We have yet seen nothing of the expected nitack, and for all we can determine, it is as distant as ever. The labor upon our fortifications has not intermitted, and they lucrease in strength and solidity hourly. Upon the brow of the hills in our vicinity, formidable forts are well advanced towards completion, and the couviction is becoming fixed that me assunits the anemy will be likely to make, can be successful. It is said the robol feneral is exciting a heavy battery of sace gens upon an emissince directly in front of our please that, which he expect to shell us out. We can see, with a strong place man, busily si work, throwing up fortifications of some kind, but whether preparing to place batters in position, or strengthening their line of earthworks, at this size nos, we cannot determine. From the fact that the sterny has creeded a line of communication outside our works, the impression is gaining ground that he is approhensive thest we may make a section and first him from the valley between Lookout Range and Figure Mouritains. I do not know what is intended in this direction, and if I knew, it would not be prudent to tell.
